

Note: Contractor is asked not only of dimensions on this and work not dimensioned in the architect's plan is to be done in the shop.

For the convenience of the contractor, the architect has provided approximate dimensions for the building in order to facilitate the contractor's preparation of working drawings. It is the contractor's responsibility to verify the accuracy of these dimensions and to provide for any necessary adjustments. The architect will not be held responsible for any errors or omissions in the contractor's working drawings.
